Strike at Terminal Elevators

Breezelets

The indications are that Uncle Sam will have more of a skeleton army more than ever by the time it gets back from Mexico.

The Prussian order "Pourle Merite," founded by Frederick the Great, has been conferred upon a submarine commander.

For imaginative sketching.

It seems to have been a case of German shell against French will at Verdun.

Hasn't Britain a right to grab the mails? It's Leap Year.

The British cabinet crisis and the American German submarine crisis are running a pretty rivalry race for frequency.

Now that a Chicago judge has decided that "Francis" Bacon is really the author of Shakespeare's works

We presume the controversy is settled for all time—at least, as far as the Chicago judge is concerned.

Calgary has adopted the day-light system.

What's that about "the early bird"? That old-fashioned early bird'll have no show in that city hereafter—there'll be too many early birds after that worm. The old-fashioned early bird will have to make his headquarters at Edmonton now—if he wants the early worm.

This day-light saving is all right though, especially, because it means gas saving as well, and that's an item in Calgary.

French continue to make gains on the Verdun front, with awful slaughter of the Germans.

Germans are being dug to death on the Verdun fields of France.

Perhaps that Edmonton lady who's trying to live on 33 cents a day is engaged to a country minister.

Heavy fighting on the Canadian front in Flanders continues, and the Canadian artillery has burst many German gas tanks.

The report doesn't say whether the kaiser was one of the busted gas tanks.

Weather Signs

WHICH ARE ARE SAID TO BE RELIABLE

If you want fine weather look for fine weather signs. Here are some of the most reliable, for they are based upon scientific facts:

When the sun sets in a sea of glory, that is, when the sunset sky is red, you may expect clear weather on the following day. At night, when the moon is clear and shows clear edges, with no halo or ring of mist surrounding it, there is little danger of rain. When the wind blows steadily from the west, the weather will continue fair, as a rule. Watch the smoke from the chimney or from your camp fire—it is a good barometer. If the smoke rises high, it means clear weather. The smoke will also show you from which direction the wind is blowing; so will a flag on an upright flagstaff.

A gray early morning, not a heavy, cloudy one, promises a fair day. A heavy dew at night is seldom followed by rain the next day. Think of it this way and you will remember: Wet feet, dry head. Animals are said often to show by their actions what the weather will be, and there is reason in this. Some of them certainly have a knowledge of coming storm. We are told that spiders are especially sensitive to weather changes, and when they make new webs the weather will be fair; if they continue spinning during a shower, it will clear off.

Just when navigation is nicely opened up and grain is on the move, along comes the news of a general tie up on account of a strike among the employees at the great terminal elevators at Fort William. Plague it all, why couldn't these employees have timed their strike to come off before navigation was opened, and the rush of grain had commenced?

The Toronto Globe is carrying advertisements asking for tenders on $2,000,000 of Alberta provincial bonds. These bonds are the loan authorized at the last session of the house.

And now Sweden has issued a "blue book." Uncle Sam will need to hurry along with his book, or else it will not have a distinctive color.

Chinook Breezes

Most of the wheat seeding is finished in this district.

Mr. Joe Demar was under the weather for a few days last week.

Glad to see Mrs. Hewitt able to be out again.

Soon be time to arrange for Chinook's sport day, in June.

Quite a number of Khaki men are to be seen on our streets these days.

Might Have Been Serious

One of our autoists had the misfortune to give his wrist a bad twist while cranking up his machine, the crank back firing.

Promoted

Arthur Yeo has been transferred from the 89th to the 187th O. B., C. E. F. and promoted to the rank of Sergeant.

May End Disastrously

Several prairie fires, in most cases caused by carelessness, are reported through our exchanges. In some cases great damage has been done.

Examinations Drawing Near

After over a week's vacation the senior room of the Chinook school resumed its studies on the homeward run for examination time at the end of June.

Returns to His Studies

Lloyd Peck returned to his studies at the Calgary high school on Sunday morning, after spending his Easter vacation under the parental roof.

Goes Back to His Farm

Mr. R. Peyton has leased his restaurant for a term of three years, the new tenant taking possession towards the end of the present month.

A Surprise

The people around here were somewhat surprised last Friday morning when they looked out of their windows to see the ground covered with white, some two or three inches of snow having quietly fallen during the night.

Proved Only Too True

The sad news of the death of Miss Estella Fish, which was circulated around town last week, has been confirmed. An inward trouble, an access, we understand, being the immediate cause of her untimely death, which will be greatly regretted by her many friends in and around Chinook.

Disastrous Fire

STATION AGENT STRONG MEETS WITH A SERIOUS LOSS

The many friends of Mr. J. Strong, late station agent here, and who recently moved to Craigmyle, will regret to learn of his loss, by fire, when the station house and freight shed at Craigmyle were burned to the ground, on Thursday afternoon of last week. The origin of the fire is somewhat of a mystery, but it is believed to have started from something on the platform, as when the flames were first seen they were eating at the south wall from the exterior, and the platform had been partly consumed. Every resident of the town did his or her part in fighting the blaze which threatened to destroy the elevators and possibly the entire business section of Craigmyle, had the wind changed.

It will mean a great financial loss to Mr. Strong, as, in addition to some $75.00 in cash, he loses everything. Mr. and Mrs. Strong had just completed papering and renovating the interior of the house, and practically refurnishing the same, including a new piano, which arrived but a day or before the fire, which, fortunately, was saved, everything else was consumed. All the family escaped without injury. Their many friends here will sympathize with them in their financial loss.

A GOPHER TAPE

Two little gophers, cute as could be, Had eight little ones—quite a family. Eight little gophers, each took a mate Soon the gopher family numbered sixty-eight.

Sixty-eight families standing in a line Just count the little ones, six hundred nine!

Thus in a summer did this family increase And all these little gophers ate a peck of grain apiece.

The slaving farmer hustled, working might and main

All the blessed summer to provide the gophers grain.

The farmer's profits vanished. He'd nothing left to sell

But the gophers laughed and fattened at his free hotel.

Swat the gopher!

Agricultural authorities state that the average destruction of grain per year is one bushel of grain to each pair of gophers. They either eat the grain or destroy the growing plant.

Gophers increase every four months, six to eight is the average litter.

Kill the gopher how you like,

but kill him!

Passed Another Milestone

Last week's issue commenced the third year of publication of this great family journal.

Of Particular Interest to Farmers

The series of official bulletins issued by the Dominion Government and now being published in this great family journal, should be very carefully read by every farmer. They treat on subjects of particular interest to farming.

The Sound of Wedding Bells, Soon

The engagement is announced of Miss Adelaide Berks Allen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Allen, of Heathdale, to Mr. John W. Hawks of Calgary. The marriage will take place in the near future.

For Mother

Mothers' Day will be appropriately observed in the Chinook church on Sunday evening, May 14th. Special sermon and music suitable for the occasion. Keep that date in mind. The church should be filled for that service.

Laid Over

A meeting of the ladies of the town and vicinity on Friday evening last, to consider the subject of establishing a Victorian Order of Nurses for Chinook, it was decided to lay the matter over for further information and consideration.

A Tangle-Leg Stunt

A khaki man from "Somewhere in Alberta," dropped into town one day this week, and got on board too big a load of tangle-leg, and finally wooped-up-er out of town on horse back on an imaginary cavalry charge to clear out every blooming German in sight. When last seen on the sky-line on a distance hill going east, he was still making imaginary jabs at his unseen foes, and for aught we know may still be pursuing the enemy—but his worst enemy is himself.

Auto Turns Turtle

AND OCCUPANTS GET A ROUGH SHAKING UP

The report comes to hand of a serious auto accident that occurred on Sunday afternoon, near Youngstown. It seems that J. McBride was running his brother new car, and when turning a corner sharply the car turned turtle, throwing the occupants out. A young lady, who was sitting in front, was badly hurt, remaining unconscious for a time; the occupants in the back seat were badly shaken up and bruised, and McBride had his collar-bone badly bruised and nearly broken. The car was also damaged.

This Road

NEEDS IMMEDIATE ATTENTION

That piece of road leading out from the village crossing over the track west to the township line is badly in need of repair. As this piece of road is on the townsite, it seems almost up to the village to repair, either by appropriation—which seems almost impossible at the present time, owing to shortage of funds—or by the townpeople making a "bee." Every farmer coming in to town complains about that piece of road, and its pretty certain that the town has to do the work. Farmers, as a rule, are going to the town where the roads are the best, even if it means a few miles further. Do you get it?

Not So Slow

A WORD WITH A DOUBLE MEANING

The following from a North Dakata paper must take its place among the classics of editorial apology:

"We wish to apologize to Mrs. Orlando Overlook. In our paper last week we had as a heading, 'Mrs. Overlook's Big Feet.' The word we had ought to have used is a French word pronounced the same way, but spelled fete. It means a celebration and is considered a tony word."

A Wasp's Wisdom.

Naturalists have decided that many wasps have sense which human beings lack. That of location, should be described as being especially remarkable. One species builds its nest in a sand bank that is only a part of several acres of such soil, and when it leaves in search of food it covers the nest so carefully that no ordinary eye could discover its location—that is to say, it is just like the sun when it sets, and when it rises again it is hard to tell whether it was right back to it without hesitation and finds it without making a mistake. There is another wasp that unerringly locates the egg of the mason bee under a thick layer of sun-baked clay and deposits her own eggs in the same cells that her young may have food when they are hatched.

Production and Thrift

"GAIN or no gain the cause before the farmers of Canada is as clear as it was last summer, and the demand for a solution of it is as strong as ever. In order to meet the demand that is made, and I believe this to be especially true in regard to live stock, the world's supply of which must be particularly affected in this vast struggle."—HON. MARTIN BURRELL, Minister of Agriculture.

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENTS ARE BASED ON REPORTS CONTAINED IN "THE AGRICULTURAL WAR BOOK, 1916," PUBLISHED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, OTTAWA, ONT.

LIVE STOCK—The herds and flocks of Europe have been greatly reduced. When the war is over there will be a great demand for breeding stock. Canadian farmers should keep this in mind.

MEATS—In 1915 Great Britain imported 664,508 tons of beef, mutton and lamb, of which 364,245 tons came from without the Empire. Out of 430,420 tons of beef only 104,967 tons came from within the Empire.

The demands of the Allies for fresh beef, canned beef, bacon and ham will increase rather than diminish. Orders are coming to Canada. The decreasing tonnage space available will give Canada an advantage if we have the supplies.

DAIRYING—Home consumption of milk, butter and cheese has increased of late years. The war demands for cheese have been unlimited. The Canadian cheese exports from Montreal in 1915 were nearly $6,000,000 over 1914. Prices at Montreal—Cheese: January 1915, 15½ to 17 cents; January 1916, 16½ to 18½ cents. Butter: January 1915, 24 to 28½ cents; January 1916, 32 to 33 cents.

EGGS—Canada produced $30,000,000 worth of eggs in 1915 and helped out Great Britain in the shortage. Shippers as well as producers have a duty and an opportunity in holding a place in that market.

WRITE TO THE DOMINION DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE AND TO YOUR PROVINCIAL DEPARTMENT FOR BULLETINS ON THESE SUBJECTS

Tens of thousands of Canada's food producers have enlisted and gone to the front. It is only fair to them that their home work shall be kept up as far as possible. The Empire needs all the food that we can produce in 1916.

Advocates Mixed Farming

Many Causes Responsible For High Living Cost

The commission appointed to investigate the high cost of living in Canada finds that the increase in the cost of living during the past 15 years, which has been practically 60 per cent, is due to the increase in the gold supply, which reduces the purchasing power of money; to manifold increase of production, individual and public; to restricted supply following disproportionate urban development; to prevailing methods of distribution; to the high cost of living due to higher standards of living by both rich and poor; to insufficient service and lack of vocational training; to the gospel of easy money which has permitted the entry of the Anglo-Saxon race to uneconomical household expenditure; and to the effect of mergers, trusts and combinations.

Among the remedies suggested are the encouragement of land settlement; greater attention to mixed farming; increased production, with the standardization of products; the encouragement of co-operation in the distribution; the extension of the parcels post system, and the making of good roads; the creation of considerable working capital, especially for the farmers of the west; and a comprehensive system of vocational training to promote greater efficiency of service, and, finally, and better understanding of the fundamental principles of production, marketing and purchase.

The commissioners were Messrs. John B. Campbell, commissioner of customs; C. C. James, agricultural commissioner; R. H. Coates, chief statistician of the department of labor, and J. J. Vincent, deputy minister inland revenue, and their work occupied over two years.

Adopts a War Wail

The Sigh of a Little Girl Touched the Hearts of the Few

A pathos war romance centres round a bright little girl, some four years old, who had been adopted by a sergeant-major of the Belfordshire Daily Telegraph. She has spent over six months at the front with the regiment that had adopted her.

About eight months ago a company of the Belfordshires were marching along, somewhere in France, for the first time. One of the men, the sergeant-major, was a sergeant-major of the Belfordshire Daily Telegraph. She has spent over six months at the front with the regiment that had adopted her.

The German trenches were about 15 yards apart. One morning, to their amazement, the little girl, who was standing above the trench on the German side, cried came from the enemy, but they were not hostile this time. The sight of the girl, little more than a child, in the trench, on the continental side, and she had offers of chocolate and invitations to go and see them. They did not expose themselves and the parents, that they saw the child, and one can imagine them crowding round to get a view of this reminder of home.

After the girl went over the parapet quite often. She was as safe in that danger zone as if she had been behind the lines. No German offered to harm her, and once she was close up to their first-line trench.

The eight days' trench duty ended; the little daughter of the company was taken back, was not allowed to return to the lines again. She was taken charge of by the company stoker, who had children of his own, and was greatly proud of the skill in digging and dressing the child in the strictness of their morning bath.

A month after she was found, the company stoker, that had sought to give her a name, Phyllis, having had discovered her, she was now dead, and they gave her his surname, to Phyllis as the nearest approach to Philip.

After she had been six months with the company, the sergeant-major was wounded and came to a hospital at home. The girl came with him and stayed close up to their first-line trench.

Sultan Did Not Want War

Why the Turkish Crown Prince Was Murdered

The reason for the murder of the Prince of Turkey, whose veins were opened by professionals, is now revealing itself.

The manager of the Levant Hotel, a friend of the Prince, in his paper relates various scenes of violence that took place between the Prince and Enver Pasha. He says the Prince returned from General Liman von Sanders who was introduced to him by Enver Pasha on October 30, 1914.

The day after the treacherous ambush, the Prince, in his black silk suit, said to his friends, "I am a man of war, not a soldier."

"You are making a great mistake in attacking us," he said to his friends.

: LADY :
URSULA'S
HUSBANDBY
FLORENCE WARDENWard, Lock & Co., Limited
TORONTO

There was more decision than tenderness in his voice now, and Lady Ursula, after a moment's pause, turned to him again. "I have been here at her brother and now at her husband, turned quickly and went into the adjoining room without another word.

Lord Eastling beckoned Payne to the corridor.

"Why not here?" said the other, assuming now a definite air of bold assumption at these strange surroundings. "I have no desire to hold a conversation in the passages?"

"I want to speak to you where my sister can't hear what I say," said Lord Eastling, coming nearer to the other and holding him steadily with his eyes.

He had laid a slight emphasis on the words, "my sister," and that gave Payne a start.

"As your sister is now my wife," he answered with equal emphasis, but still very coolly, "surely it is for me to say whether she is to hear what you have to say."

"I don't think you will say so when you know why I have come," said Lord Eastling. "Any rate, I won't speak to you where we can be overheard. So come along."

Paul affected to be intensely disgusted and irritated with this obstinacy, but he threw down his hat and tramped on with a more pertinacity than apprehension to the end.

Lord Eastling led the way out of the room and they went to see that Paul was following him.

"Where are we going to?" asked Paul, in a bored voice.

"Down till we come to some room where we can talk," replied the other with a smile.

They descended to the ground floor, where Lord Eastling opened the door of a dark sitting room, turned up the electric light, and then faced the other once more.

Paul was still as cool as a cucumber.

"I wonder if we may smoke here," he said as he took out a cigarette.

"Better not. Till you've heard what I have to say."

"Well?"

"We have come to take my sister back to England."

Paul appeared quite unmoved. He just raised his eyebrows.

"Will she...?" he asked softly.

"Yes. When she comes to you."

ate me from my wife?"

"I have only to let her know who you are, what you are and show her in your true colors, and there will be no further question as to your position with her. My sister is a salient saint," said Payne quietly.

"Perhaps you don't know much about saints," said Payne quietly. "But anyhow, it's never too late to learn. Come upstairs with me and tell her all about it," said Payne.

He was so confident, so cool, that Lord Eastling doubted for a moment whether the influence would be strong enough to prevail, but he had a hunch that this homespun rascal, who seemed so convinced of his own powers.

And he dreading the task of telling his sister of her brother such a hideous secret, he turned quickly and went into the adjoining room without another word.

Economizing in Horses

Work Should be Provided For Farm Horses the Year Round in Order to Cover Maintenance Cost

Figures vary somewhat, but the average farm horse does not work much more than three and a half hours a day, and the cost of feeding him looks small at first, but it is nevertheless, and shows that either our system of farming is wrong or we are keeping too many horses. Surely horses cannot be kept without running down the feed. Roughly speaking, the cost of feeding a farm horse, figures added at market value on the farm, interest on the money invested in the horse, depreciation in value of the horse, and the other cost of keeping a horse.

And some glimmering of the situation came into my mind, for she knew by the expression of anguish upon her brother's face that he at least had made that charge he had made.

For a moment she seemed to hesitate.

"Are you going with him?" asked Paul.

For answer she put her hands on her husband's shoulders, and looked up, brave and confident, into his face.

"No," she said. "I am your wife, Paul. I'll stay with you."

Bureau of Social Research For the Prairie Provinces

In nothing, perhaps, has the most Montane government shown a greater vision than in cooperation with the other prairie provinces to establish a Bureau of Social Research. This bureau is now an accomplished fact and Mr. Woodsworth, of Winnipeg, is directed to the new office, which will occur to most people that if the three governments had not undertaken the work for a man to undertake it would not be more suitable than James J. Woods would have been, conceived of his own powers.

It had to be done; and cool, that Lord Eastling doubted for a moment whether the influence would be strong enough to prevail, but he had a hunch that this homespun rascal, who seemed so convinced of his own powers.
